What is R410A and Why should I choose an AC with R410A?

R410A is the refrigerant used in most air conditioners being manufactured today. By 2010, AC units with R-22 refrigerant will be banned. R-22 will be phased out, more expensive and difficult to get.

The benefits of R410A include superior quality air conditioners with vastly improved energy efficiency (saves you money on your energy bills) and they are also ecologically friendly.
